SEMINAR INFORMATION

Stuart Teicher has traveled the world as a professional legal educator, and he's seen all kinds of bad behavior. Coincidentally, it mirrors a lot of the bad behavior he's seen as an attorney ethics investigator. Join the CLE Performer as he draws parallels between passengers and practitioners and explains key ethics rules that will help every lawyer stay safe in their practice.

Topics discussed include:

- Perils in the seat — how simple conversations in transit could create conflicts
- Security checkpoints and confidentiality (Rule 1.6)
- Technology terrors when lawyers travel
- Sneaking into first class and other deceptive tactics (Rule 8.4)
- Wear your pajamas on the plane, but not in court (professionalism issues)
- Small airplane bottles of booze can lead to large substance abuse problems

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Stuart I. Teicher, Esq. is a professional legal educator who focuses on ethics law and writing instruction. A practicing attorney for over two decades, Professor Teicher's career is now dedicated to helping both students and fellow attorneys survive the practice of law and thrive in the profession. Professor Teicher teaches seminars, provides in-house training to law firms and legal departments, provides CLE instruction at law firm client events, and also gives keynote speeches at conventions and association meetings.

Stuart's focus is on the ethical issues in social networking and other technology. Recently, Thomson Reuters published a book he wrote on the topic entitled, "Navigating the Legal Ethics of Social Media and Technology." Professor Teicher also speaks about "Practical Ethics" — those lessons hidden in the ethics rules that enhance a lawyer's practice.

Stuart is a Supreme Court appointee to the New Jersey District Ethics Committee where he investigates and prosecutes grievances filed against attorneys. Professor Teicher has been an adjunct Professor of Law at Rutgers Law School in Camden, New Jersey where he taught Professional Responsibility and is currently an adjunct professor of Law at Georgetown Law and Rutgers University in New Brunswick where he teaches undergraduate writing courses.
